Consumption!
EASILY overcome in its infancy, it rapidly arrives, if neglected, at an unconquerable and terrific maturity. An obstinate violent, and convulsive cough is the inevitable forerunner, when neglected, of the Pulmonary Consumption and its attendant train of horrors; increased heat and pulse, nausea, oppression of the breast, greenish & bloody spittle, loss of appetite and increase of thirst, ulcerated lungs, clammy sweats and hectic fever; general emaciation of the body, shrivelled extremities, excessive and weakening discharge, sinking of the eyes, prostration of strength, burning pains and flushed cheeks, swollen feet and legs; and at length, while the wretched sufferer is still anguine of life, cold extremities and agonizing death. These evils may be nipped in the bud by the timely administration of that long tried and invaluable medicine, DR. R. ELFE'S ASTHMATIC PILLS,
which have been known to cure persons supposed to be far gone in a consumption, and exhibiting all the appearance of approaching dissolution. Price, whole boxes, 50 Pills, $1—half do. 12 Pills 50 cts.
Prepared by T. KIDDER, 29 Court street, Boston, sole proprietor and successor to Dr. Conway. For sale by his special appointment, by
R. R. HAZARD.
At the Sign of the Golden Mortar, near the State-House.

BLAZING STAR.
THE thorough-bred Horse BLAZING STAR, will stand the ensuing Season at the stable of the Subscriber, on the Baker Farm, in Middletown.—This fine Horse is 3 years old, 15 hands high, a bright chestnut color, and in appearance and movement is equal to any horse of his age.

The Knickerbocker.

From the May number of this valuable periodical, we make the following interesting extract from the article on "Our Own Country":—

The glorious results of the daring of our countrymen—on the ocean, in the forests, every where that an American flag can float—I have described in my former article. Be it my duty now, to point out some of the dangers of this daring. The truth is, all speculations have been so abundantly realized—all prophecy has lagged so far behind history—that though we once called madmen mad, we now only call them inspired. The cry is,
'Nothing is impossible,' audacious as it is.
The power that Fulton vivified and subdued tot man, is infecting the whole character of all our countrymen, and the destinies of our country, too. To him be the immortal honor of striking out a new link for our union, in annihilating the distance, as it were, that separated State from State, and thus more firmly binding us together. But this power, at the same time is acting upon mind as well as upon matter. It sends into the world such a flood of books, that we are overwhelmed by the very tide. There is so much to read, that many read—nothing. There is so much to think of, that we only think to think we need not think at all. Alas! too, this new power is strengthening all the mischievous tendencies of the present day. As there is a steam power acting physically, so there is a steam power acting morally—intellectually—to which is given the name of EXCITEMENT. That creature, PUBLIC, is fed on this, and over-fed, and, like all dainty epicures, thirsts for spicier dishes, and more fiery draughts.
The public, like some great beast, roars for food, reckless of what that food may be, provided only it be a highly seasoned dish. Even the wizard pen of the once mighty Scott has, with some, ceased to charm, and another author has sprung up carrying all before him—the 'Thrilling Bulwer,' as he is called. Such is the thirst for terror, such the panting to witness even the spilling of human blood—you see your highways thronged, even with women to witness an execution! The bookseller will sell more of the pirate story than of the proudest achievement of the human mind. The excitement enters our language—aye, the very construction of our sentences. Metaphors must not now be abstract, but of something that will satisfy the physical and mechanical cravings of the day—something that you can see, touch, handle, fumble over.—Sentences must be short—not built in the regular way, for such nobody will read—but in the hop-skip-and-jump, startling style, set off with exclamations and interrogations; for whether you are read or heard, more depends upon the manner than upon the sentiments you utter. The dictionaries, in fact, are in a whirl. Words do not mean what they did, before steam power came along. Our very mother tongue is on a railroad. Our politicians, editors and lawyers, for example call each other fools, rascals, scoundrels, liars, when all the time they mean, 'We are a very clever set of fellows.' Such is the reason why every thing is now done on the high pressure principle. Every body is for talking—none for hearing. You can't catch a friend long enough to tell him a story. You can hardly get a civil answer from a business man during business hours, unless there is a bargain in the way. Wall-street is full of little steam locomotives, chattering of stocks, news, etc. whizzing, buzzing, and puffing, like the pipe of a Mississippi steam-boat. Lawyers are codifying, that is condensing.
Jeremy Bentham has been the great legal steam engine of the day. Abridgements, Encyclopedias, Reviews, are words in common use. Every thing must now be short. Men are heard and read by their length, according to what their speech measures, not by their calibre, or what they have to say. Even the sanctuary of the pulpit has been invaded, and the line and the rule have cut down the three hour sermons of our ancestors to twenty or thirty minutes. Literature, too, is measured by rule. Why, you buy it as a trader buys a cord of wood—so much a volume—so much a page—so much a line! Imagination like every thing else is now mechanical.

This poetic spirit, acting upon matter and making nothing wonderful, has almost done away with the use of wonder as a word. That nothing is wonderful now, is a common saying. Almost Promethean audacity infuriates the age. Experiment is essaying every thing. The Patent Office in Washington is a curious panorama of what men will attempt to do. Measurement is even applied to our heads, to gauge our intellects. The Phenologist decides upon our powers by our developments—as if man himself was a piece of mechanism, full of a thousand little strings and cog-wheels called brains—and then at last he assumes to know what a man will do, by running his fingers through his hair! And then the audacity of steam-with steam-boats, steam-mills, and steam-horses—with contrivances to make us sleep by steam, and even to catch our fish by steam! So mechanical has the age become, that men seriously talk of flying machines, to go by steam—not your air-balloons, but real Dædalus wings, made of wood and joints, nailed to your shoulders—not wings of feathers and wax, like the wings of Icarus, who fell into the Cre-tan sea, but real, solid, substantial rock-maple wings, with wrought-iron hinges, and huge concavities, to propel us through the air. A machine has been invented, too, for planting corn! Machinery is getting into our schools. The schoolmaster works by it, with blocks, moving maps, diagrams, orreries, etc. Grammar is taught by pictures—conjugations are done by wheels. The schoolmaster measures, phrenologically, his boy-machine, and then brings his other machines to act upon his 'developments.' Our colleges are but little more than mere machines, that grind out a Bachelor of Arts' in four years, whether he knows any thing or not. The sum of the statement is, that machinery is usurping the place of men; and men, in defence are becoming machines. There is, it cannot be disguised, a tendency to matter rather than to mind.

A few choice spirits keep alive the vestal fire, but the mass of our countrymen demand what is practical, rather than what is intellectual. This is visible in the universal scramble for property—in the adoration felt for wealth—in the neglect of the fine arts—in the little reward that genius has hitherto received at the hands of our countrymen, while it is cherished every where else. But what more could be expected? We have just finished laying the foundations of an empire. We have had two wars to fight, both fierce and bloody. The war-whoop is not yet over.
The infernal yell of the savage has just ceased to startle us. The musket is now laid down, and the pen, the pencil, and the chisel begin to be taken up. The Great West is opening its rivers and prairies for a reading and a thinking population.—Anon, this will be the greatest book-mart in the world. Literature is already becoming a profession. As we grow in our growth, then, and strengthen in our strength, we will build upon the foundations our father left us. We will rear the fabric of FREE GOVERNMENT to the skies. We will adorn and embellish it, and make it beautiful in the eyes of all men. We will kindle such a light on the American shores, as shall illuminate the earth. Do not here accuse me of prophcy. Prophecy has ever done us injustice, and for very cowardice faltered behind the day. Imagination, even, cannot picture the destiny that awaits us, if we preserve our Liberty and our Union. God has promised a renowned existence if we will but deserve it. He speaks his promise in the sublimity of nature. It resounds all along the crags of the Alleghanies. It is uttered in thunder at Niagara. It is heard in the roar of two oceans, from the great Pacific to the rocky ramparts of the Bay of Fundy. His finger has written it in the broad expanse of our inland seas, and traced it out by the mighty Father of Waters. The august temple in which we dwell was built for lofty purposes. Oh! that we may consecrate it to Liberty and Concord, and be found fit worshippers within its holy halls!

GEOLOGY.

In his third lecture on Wednesday evening Professor Silliman resumed the subject of Volcanoes. He said volcanic mountains built themselves up by the force of fire below them. In an eruption, they sometimes explode and sometimes collapse. There are eighty principal volcanic eminences connected with Aina. He stated that there are submarine volcanoes which, notwithstanding the enormous pressure of the sea that is on an average about five miles deep, frequently rise above the surface. They are known by the boiling and agitation of the waters; by the rising of smoke, and the red hot stones thrown out. In 1811 a volcanic island arose near the Azores, and the captain of a British man-of-war lying in that neighborhood, took possession of it in the name of his majesty, and planted a flag upon its summit.— Not regarding the oath of allegiance, it soon afterwards sunk beneath the waters.
Submarine volcanoes are frequent in the Grecian Archipelago. And there is good evidence to believe eruptions are more numerous under the sea than on the dry land, inasmuch as the surface of the water is far more extensive than that of the land.

It is computed by Lyell, a celebrated writer on this subject, that there are twenty volcanic eruptions on the globe every year. The force created by the action of fire and water in the production of steam, Mr. Silliman illustrated by boiling water in a tight vessel; from which experiment it was easy to see that the generation of a large quantity of steam under the earth might be sufficient to tear asunder mountains and throw out great masses of melted rocks. Werner, the distinguished German geologist, inferred that volcanic fires were fed by coal. This theory the Professor said was unworthy of the reputation of Werner. Volcanoes have no regard to coal formations; their eruptions are in places where coal does not exist; and besides there are no mines extensive enough to yield supplies for such furnaces.

Many volcanoes are known to have been burning for a long period of time.— Stromboli has been in a state of eruption for 2000 years. Fire can easily be created by galvanic arrangements, if primitive heat, or that existing when the earth was formed, be wanting. What is remarkable in this galvanic influence, it electrifies all substances on which it operates; the supporters of combustion all go to the positive poles, and the combustible to the negative. Thus combustibles in the earth can be drawn together, burned, and volcanic action produced.

The extent of such action Mr. Silliman represented to be very great. An eruption in Iceland darkened all the northern part of Europe, and filled up valleys six miles in width.

The lecturer said that Trap Rock had an intimate connexion with volcanoes; that it was of a most interesting character, and found in abundance in New-England. A range of it commences in Greenland in this state, and continues down to New-Haven, Conn. It presents what are called mural fronts, of regular slope from the vertex down to the ruins, which generally lie in large masses below the columns. The form of this rock is prismatic; and its cracking is vertical, so that water enters into it, freezes, expands, and thus breaks down its prison walls. It is distinguished by great grandeur, and is supposed to have been once melted, and therefore a production of internal fire.— It is found in volcanoes, and seems to be the substance with which all volcanic productions are united by the closest gradation. The etymological meaning of Trap is stair, which peculiar form is exhibited by this rock, and hence its name. The Giant's Causeway and the Cave of Fingal are remarkable instances of this kind of rock. It is generally found to be composed of hornblende and felspar; when homogeneous, or of one substance, it is called basalt. It is very heavy and is broken with great difficulty. There are cavities in this rock in which are found agates, and chalcodony of the most beautiful kind.

It is never stratified like many other rocks. It forms what geologists call dikes, by obtruding itself into other rocks and driving through them without regard to order or decency. The Professor called it a universal mischief-maker; that is, it is found among all other rocks, and always appears in the character of an intruder.

MRS. HEMANS.

A correspondent of the N. York Evening Star, writing from Liverpool says:— It is with indescribable pain that I announce to you that, in all human probability, our gifted poetess, Felicia Dorothea Hemans, must, by this time, be no more.
My latest account was that her death was hourly expected—and that in her case, death would be a relief, for long continued illness had outworn her frame. She had one satisfaction—and, although politically opposed to Sir R. Peel, it is but fair (in letters which profess to detail all things with impartiality,) to state the fact: —Mrs. Hemans has four or five sons; and, to complete their education, had quitted England and taken up her residence at Dublin—the course of instruction at that University being more general and the expense far less than at Oxford or Cambridge. One of her friends knew that writing as she had written, for a mere livelihood, she was not overburdened with worldly wealth: she had laid up her treasures not on earth. The thought that, in a great degree, her children would be left unprovided for, much embittered her latest thoughts. Her friend, making the necessity of the application his chief excuse wrote a brief letter to Sir R. Peel, mentioning that the gifted poetess was dying, and that her mind was much afflicted with the dread of leaving her children unfriended and poor. By return of post, a letter came from Sir R. Peel, kindly complaining that the application to him had been delayed until the latest moment;—enclosing a bank note for one hundred pounds (500 dollars)—empowering Mrs.
Hemans's friend to draw on him for any further sum, if necessary, and concluding with a solemn promise to take on himself the charge of providing for the children; if he could not do it by putting them into public situations, he would out of his own fortune. Deeds of kindness, like this, exalt our opinion of human nature and of mankind; they reconcile us to the possession, by individuals, of immense wealth, and they bless not only those who receive, but those who dispense the benefit.

NEWPORT,
SATURDAY, May 23, 1835.

ADVICES FROM FRANCE.

We have no later intelligence from France, than was given in our last paper. The report that the ship Undine, from Bordeaux, spoken off Block-Island on Sunday last, had advised that the Indemnity Bill had passed the Chamber of Deputies, is incorrect. The Undine arrived at New-York on Thursday, and brings no later dates, having sailed from Bordeaux on the 15th April.

A London paper of the evening of 10th of April, twelve hours later than previous advices,—has been received at N. York.—Lord Melbourne and the Marquis of Lansdown had an interview with the King, and it was believed that they had received his Majesty's commands to form a new Administration. The particulars had not transpired up to the latest date.

THE BALTIMORE CONVENTION.

The Washington correspondent of the New-York Journal of Commerce, under date of May 19th, says:—

"The Baltimore Convention will assemble to-morrow at the Unitarian Church. The number of delegates in attendance will be very great,—probably four or five hundred. Many of the members, from every quarter of the country, have been in this city for three or four days past. On Saturday they dined with the President, and yesterday with the Vice President.

The Convention will remain in session four days. On the first day, the assembly will merely appoint a temporary chairman, and ascertain who are its members. The second day, a President and Secretaries will be chosen, and the committees appointed. On the third and fourth days, the Reports will be made, and the speeches many of which are, perhaps already condensed and written, will be let off."

RUMORS.—The Baltimore Chronicle of Monday, says, "there is a rumor in town that Gov. Cass has tendered his resignation as Secretary of War, and that it has been accepted."

The Washington Correspondent of the same paper says, "I understand from good authority that Forsyth is to leave the State Department, and that Woodbury is to take his place."

MR. POLK, member of Congress from Tennessee, has taken the field against Judge White, as a candidate for the Presidency. In an address which he has published to the people of Tennessee, he says:—"In all I have said or done upon this subject, my object has been to preserve the power and perpetuate the principles of the great democratic party, now dominant in the country."

Florida Election.—Col. White is re-elected a Delegate in Congress from the Territory of Florida, by an almost unanimous vote—so far as the returns have come in. There were three other candidates.

Water Power.—A writer in the National Intelligencer says, "The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company can furnish as much water power within the District of Columbia, as will propel every machine now in operation in the State of Rhode-Island." He however complains that the price of it is extravagantly high.

THE HONORED CHIEF JUSTICE.—The National Intelligencer of Tuesday last, referring to the rumors of the ill-health of Chief Justice Marshall, has this cheering paragraph:

"We are happy to say that a letter from the Chief Justice, upon business, was yesterday received at the office of the National Intelligencer, the contents and appearance of which indicate nothing like indisposition of either mind, or body, in the writer. The hand is as firm, and matter as germane to the purposes, as usual with him. Furthermore, the Richmond Compiler of Friday last states, that the Editor saw the Chief Justice on the previous day, taking his accustomed walk half a mile distant from his residence.

Funeral Honors to the late General Leavenworth were paid at New-York on Tuesday, agreeably to previous arrangement. It is stated that the large attendance of the military and civil functionaries of the city rendered the ceremony a most imposing and interesting though melancholy spectacle. At the side of the hearse walked Gen. Scott, who commanded at the battle of Chippewa and was in the hottest of the fight with Leavenworth.

RHODE-ISLAND SILK. A few months since, we gave some account of the operations of the Valentine Silk Company, in this city.—They were at that time just getting their plantation of Mulberry trees under way, and had commenced operating some machinery by way of experiment. Since that time they have manufactured a considerable quantity of rich and beautiful goods, and have been so fully satisfied with the result of their experiment, that they have fitted up, in the vicinity of the Steam Cotton Factory, in this city, a building, thirty feet by ninety, three stories high, with a basement, to be devoted hereafter to the manufacture of Silk. An engine of six horse power, is already up, and the machinery will be in operation, in the course of the ensuing week. Thus as Rhode-Island led the way in the manufacture of Cotton, so does she lead in the manufacture of Silk—and we do not doubt that the latter enterprise will prove to be even more beneficial to New England, than the former has ever been.

The plantation of this Company, now contains about 30,000 trees, from four to five years old, and from six to eight feet high.—One of the oldest and most eminent silk culturists in the United States, on examining this plantation a few days since, expressed the opinion that, for the next five years, its products would average half a pound of silk to a tree. The silk, when wound upon the spool, is worth five dollars per pound. At this estimate, the whole product of the plantation would amount to the incredible sum of $75,000 per year. But admitting—and it is admitted on all hands—that the trees for the next five years will average one-eighth of a pound each, the products of the plantation will amount to upwards of $12,000 per year.

It is to be hoped that extensive preparations will be made during the present season, to extend the growth, of what promises to become in a few years, the great staple of New-England. It is a staple too, that will require as little protection against foreign competition, as the cotton of the South, and promises to relieve us more than any thing else, from the necessity of calling for the revival of the protecting policy, after the period of its limitation shall expire.

The Michigan war suspended.

The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser of the evening of the 11th, has this paragraph:—"Messrs. Rush and Howard, who have been acting as Mediators between Ohio and Michigan, left this city yesterday, on their return to Washington. We learn from them the important fact, that Gov. Lucas with his suite, and the militia who were assembled at Perrysburgh, have returned to their respective homes.

The Commissioners for running the northern boundary line of Ohio, have also returned, and will suspend their operations until after the meeting of the Ohio Legislature in June, a special session of which, at that time, has been called by Governor Lucas.

We are much gratified to have in our power thus to assure our readers, from an official source, that no further difficulties need be apprehended between the two Great Powers—in Cabinet parlance—for some months, at least."

MICHIGAN.—The Convention elected for the purpose of forming a Constitution for the State of Michigan, was appointed to meet at Detroit on Monday last.—Congress will be called on to admit this State into the Union at their next session.

Rev. Dr. Channing.—The National Gazette (Philadelphia paper) of Monday, has the following notice. The editor of the Gazette is of the Papal Church.

"Dr. Channing, of Boston, preached yesterday at the Unitarian Church, to a crowded congregation, a sermon which fully sustained his high reputation as a Christian moralist and pulpit orator. He edited and contented all his auditors, among whom were persons of different religious denominations, and of distinguished intelligence."

THE CAPE DE VERD MUTINEERS.—A letter from the correspondent of the N. Y. Courier & Enquirer at the island of St. Thomas mentions the arrival there of a schooner in distress, which is no doubt one of the two vessels seized and carried off by the insurgent Miguelites and murderers of Port Praya, the report of whose atrocities has recently reached this country.

LIBERAL SUBSCRIPTION.—The sum of eleven thousand and ninety three dollars has been subscribed in the city of Baltimore for establishing the Firemen's Beneficial Fund, for the relief of Firemen who may be injured while discharging their duties in the capacity of Firemen, which sum is invested in five per cent. stock in the city of Baltimore, irredeemable and not transferrable.

STEAM BOAT DISASTER.—The steamboat William Parsons, on her passage from New-Orleans to Little Rock, was snagged and sunk in Arkansas river, about 40 miles above port Arkansas. She had a cargo worth about $6,000, fully insured; part of it has been saved in a damaged state. No insurance on the boat, which, it is supposed will be lost.

FROM BUENOS AYRES.

A gentleman who left Buenos Ayres on the 23d of March, and came passenger in the brig Harp er, at Philadelphia, from Monte Video, informs us that the markets were bad, and very little doing, in consequence of the unsettled state of the country. General Quiroga, who conducted the late expedition against the Indians, and more recently was commissioned by Buenos Ayres to act as mediator between two of the inland Provinces unhappily at war with each other, had been assassinated, with the whole of his guard, or suite, of ten men. Great excitement prevailed at Buenos Ayres in consequence of this event. The Legislative Assembly had been called together, and their President appointed Governor for five years, with extraordinary powers. General Quiroga was a very brave officer and had seen a good deal of active service. He was impetuous, often hazarding every thing on the issue of a single engagement, but was almost always successful.

N. Y. Jour. Commerce.

Green Peas are selling in the Norfolk Market at six dollars per bushel! Strawberries have just made their appearance there.

GREAT FIRE IN BOSTON.

The Boston Daily Advertiser of Tuesday last, gives the following particulars of a destructive fire in that city:—

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—A fire broke out at about 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in Blackstone street, in the northern part of the city, by which about thirty houses, shops, and stables were destroyed. The fire caught in the carpenter's shop of Messrs. Stetson & Smith, about half way between Mr. Chamberlin's Crockery Store and the Mechanics' Inn. It was occasioned by the upsetting of a spirit lamp, employed in heating a pot of glue, which instantaneously communicated the flames to every part of the shop. They extended immediately to several adjoining shops, and the stable on an estate belonging to Judge Ward, occupied by Mr. Simmons, which with their contents were entirely consumed. The Mechanics' Inn, at the corner of Blackstone street, belonging to Mr. Eben'r Smith, took fire and was much injured, but not consumed. All the other buildings between Blackstone—Cross and Pond streets, except Mr. Chamberlin's Crockery store, were consumed.

On the other side of Pond street, the Massachusetts Hotel at the corner of Cross street took fire and was much injured. The stable belonging to it was entirely destroyed, and also the livery stable of Mr. Davis, whose horses were mostly saved with much difficulty, by cutting a passage through the rear of the stable. The buildings also on the west Salem street, formerly Back street, from Cross to Hanover street, including several dwelling houses, were entirely consumed, with the exception of Mr. Chamberlin's store, which was much injured.

Besides the buildings above named, the following were destroyed, viz: the stables of Messrs. Harris, and Wentworth. Mr. Baldwin's carpenter's shop, Mr. Thomas Boyd's carpenter's shop, Mr. White's Blacksmith's shop, Dr. Samuel Thompson's house and shop, Mr. Vose's dwelling houses, on the estates of Messrs. Bulfinch, and Howe & Abbott's cooper's shop.

Several accidents happened by which a number of persons were seriously injured. Two members of Engine company No. 13, and Mr. Nathaniel Wade, were injured by bricks falling upon them. Mr. Burros, who resides in Merrimack-street, had an arm and leg broken, and several other persons were more or less burnt. It was rumored that two children were killed, and that two men were buried under a falling wall, but we cannot find that there is any authority for these rumors. Several members of the fire department were considerably scorched. The department made great exertions for several hours. Their duties were rendered much more laborious from the deficiency of water and the distance from which it was necessary to bring it.

We copy the following additional particulars, and appropriate remarks, from the Commercial Gazette of Wednesday:

"We yesterday re-visited the site of the late fire and found the devastation and actual loss of property to be more extensive than we had previously supposed. It appears, as we are informed by the Assessor's books, that the amount of real estate destroyed, or nearly so, was estimated by them at $90,000. A piece of ground in the shape of a triangle, consisting of several acres, and extending from Blackstone street on the one side to Salem and Hanover streets on the two others, is now either left entirely vacant or is covered only with tottering walls and isolated stacks of chimneys, presenting one of the most hideous and desolate scenes that was ever offered to the eye of man. Where but yesterday all was tranquility and domestic comfort, is in the short space of a single hour converted into a smoking pile of black and smouldering ruins. By this sudden and unwelcome visitation, something like 80 families, many of them in a state of almost destitution and nakedness, have been cast into the streets, and this too at a time when there is scarcely a house or tenement of any description to be had in the whole city, either for love or money. Many of the poor families obtained for the first night a temporary refuge with some of the charitable neighbors. Others sought and obtained shelter in the Baptist Meeting House, near the bottom of Union street, and in the building occupied by the Hancock School and Ward room, in Hanover street. What the poor creatures will do, when the garb of charity shall have become thread bare,—and our knowledge of the world teaches us to believe its texture to be none of the firmest,—heaven only knows. Some public provision must be made for them; at all events, in such a community as ours, there needs no ghost to tell us that every thing like actual suffering will in all Christian charity be prevented."

OBTERATING INSPECTOR'S MARKS.—It has been decided by Judge Hopkins, of the United States District Court of Pennsylvania, and by Judge Baldwin of the U. S. Circuit Court, to whom the case was carried by a writ of error, that the Act of Congress passed 2nd March, 1799, which subjects, "any person who shall sell, or in any way alienate or remove any cash, chest, vessel or case which has been emptied of its contents, (being distilled spirits, wines, or teas) before the marks and numbers set thereon, &c. shall have been defaced or obliterated in presence of any officer of inspection," to the forfeiture of $100, pointed at the seller, and not the purchaser of the cash, as the offender against its provisions. In other words, that the purchaser is not liable to the penalty.

Chib and Michigan.—The Washington Globe says that Gov. Lucas, finding obstacles to the running of the line between Ohio and Michigan, and the assertion of jurisdiction as directed by the Legislature, which could not have been anticipated when the late law was passed, has suspended the proceedings, and convened the Legislature, with a view to submit the matter to their consideration. The meeting is to take place on the 8th of June.

LATE FROM CHARLESTON.

By the Steamboat Wm. Gibbons, Capt. Penoyer, we have Charleston papers to the evening of the 16th inst.

We are sorry to find that the Cholera is again visiting some of the towns on the Mississippi. Three cases were reported by the Natchez Board of Health for the week ending 29th inst. The New-Orleans Bulletin of the 7th inst. says:

"Some cases of Cholera have unquestionably occurred during the past week, on board the shipping and about the levee—enough to admonish all to be careful in diet—but there is little if any Cholera in the city, and not sufficient to justify any alarm. The powers of the Cholera have ceased as a raging epidemic, and need now be scarcely regarded as more than an endemic of New Orleans pretty well understood, and easily conquered by our medical practitioners, were their aid seasonably invoked."

LATEST FROM MEXICO.

By private advices received yesterday, (says the New Orleans Bee, of the 6th inst.) from Tampico, it appears that the revolution in Mexico is assuming a serious aspect. Already have several of the states declared in favor of the plan of Alvarez and Farias; and many others that have not yet made any demonstration are expected soon to join them. Both those generals intend to concentrate their forces on Mexico; and Alvarez has already advanced for that purpose. Santa Anna has assumed the command of the army; and gone to Tampico; but it is believed he will march thence (after some necessary arrangements) to the encampments of Gomez Farias at Zacatecas.—Barragan acts still as the regent president.

Under these phases of hostile preparations, it is probable that the contest will be protracted and bloody.

The following is an extract of a letter from Tampico, 25th April:

We suppose that the difficulties with the state of Zacatecas will end in nothing as it appears that government as well as the state, do not like to fight. Government has withdrawn its troops sent against the state, and the Governor of that state has permitted a conducta to leave its capital with $150,000 in charge of T. A. Guerrero, and which was to leave San Louis Potosi on the 28th inst.

New-York Gazette.

Polish Emigrants.—The New-York American of Saturday last states, that 47 Polish exiles arrived in that city a few days since, in an Austrian frigate from Trieste, and asks,—"By what authority or right, or courtesy, does a foreign national vessel thus bring to our shores, persons incapable of maintaining themselves, and who may become a charge to this country? Is there any understanding on the subject between the two countries."

A tornado, the effects of which were confined to a width of about two hundred yards, passed over Lowndes, Ware and Wayne counties, Georgia, on the 30th ult. Houses, trees, fences—in fact every thing was prostrated before it, but fortunately no lives were lost.

A Paris paper of April 6th, contains the French poet Lamartine's account of a visit recently paid by him to the celebrated Lady Hester Stanhope, whose long residence among the Arabs, and influence over them, are among the most curious incidents of the age. Lamartine, after giving a poet's description of her past career, thus adds, what may be called a poet's vision of her probable future:—"I should not be surprised if some near day should realise a part of the destiny she promises to herself—an empire in Arabia, and a throne in Jerusalem. The least political commotion in the region she inhabits, might raise her to this."

Connecticut State Prison.—From the annual report of the Directors of the Connecticut State Prison, it appears that the number of convicts in the prison at this time is 207, of whom 50 are blacks, and 19 are females. They are employed in various branches of labour, viz 23 in the carpenter's shop, 21 in the smith's shop, 45 in the chair shop, 43 in the cane seating shop, 17 in the shoe shop, 22 in the Britannia ware shop, 7 as waiters and nurses, and 10 are invalids. The females are employed partly in the kitchen, and partly in making cigars. About half the contracts are let out by the day on contracts. The income the last year from the labour of the convicts, including the receipts from visitors, amounted to 17,384 Dollars, making an average of $91.50 for each. The whole amount of expenses for the year, including the support of prisoners and the expenses of the guard, was $12,116, or an average of $63.77 for each. The prison has therefore made a profit from the labour of the prisoners of $5,268. The Directors propose that a separate block of cells, 15 or 20 in number, be built, to be paid for out of the income of the prison. The prison is represented as well calculated for the safe keeping of the prisoners, no one having ever made his escape.

FIRE.—At a quarter past 12 o'clock last night, a fire broke out in the two story wooden building corner of Centies slip and Front street, owned and occupied by Miller & Bancker, who'sale grocers and forwarding merchants, and in fifteen or twenty minutes the building was burnt to the ground, together with the contents.—The fire extended to the roof of the next building, occupied by Samuel Aymar & Co, as a Ship Chandlery, and this building was also entirely consumed, after a considerable quantity of the goods had been removed from it. The loss of Miller & Bancker is estimated at from 10 to $15,000, one quarter of it was insured, including $1400 on the building. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary, an attempt having been made to fire the building (in which it broke out,) a short time since.

N. Y. Mer. Adv. of Thursday.

TOUCHING CIRCUMSTANCE.—We have rarely read an incident more thrilling to the feelings of a parent than the following, related in the Ithica Journal:

"On the afternoon of last Sabbath, an accident occurred to an only son of Mr. A. C. Marsh, merchant of Groton, Tompkins county, which, for its fortunate result, is almost without a parallel. The circumstances were as follows. Mr. Marsh, while passing from his house to his barn, a distance of eight or ten rods, noticed his little son, about twenty months old, near the well at play; but on returning and not seeing the child, he supposed he had gone into the house. On making inquiry, he found the child had not been in the house for some time, and the painful suspicion occurred to him that the child might have fallen into the well. He hastened in search, with feelings that none but a parent can even feebly appreciate. He soon discovered the dreadful certainty. The child had stepped upon the end of a loose board, and was precipitated to the bottom of the well, a distance of thirty-nine feet; there being but about three feet of water in the well at the time, it could have relieved the force of the fall but in a small degree. Mr. Marsh, with a presence of mind which too often forsakes us in the moment of danger, prepared instantly to descend; but here he was interrupted by the boards over the mouth of the well being so firmly fastened as to resist the utmost force of his hands to remove them. The object was, after some minutes delay, effected by prying up and splitting off a piece at a time (so firmly were they nailed) until an opening was made sufficient to admit him to pass, when he hurried down in search of the body of his son, supposing that the fall must have produced instant death. He soon discovered the child by its clothing, near the top of the water. He seized it and immediately commenced, with an aching heart, to ascend with it in his arms; and though in a debilitated state of health from frequent attacks of asthma, had accomplished nearly half the distance, when he perceived the feeble grasp of his child. At this moment, he found himself beginning to fail, and had nearly lost his hold. He called to those at the top of the well, and informed them that his child was not dead, and requested help, when three of his neighbors descended, and passing the child from one to the other, soon restored the still apparently lifeless body to its anxious mother. Medical aid was immediately called, which, together with the assiduous care of its anxious parents, soon restored the little sufferer to a state of consciousness. The next morning, no traces could be discovered in the child of an accident having occurred, other than two or three small bruises on the head."

From the Philadelphia Gazette.
AEROSTATIC.—Ballooning has become a mania.—It might be thought that a large portion of our population were ashamed of their mother earth and had determined to colonize some other region. Scarce a day passes without an ascension. Mr. Lauriat, of Boston, has established a permanent balloon to be let out to amateurs. He makes the first trial himself, taking with him his daughter. We are sorry to see the ladies thus leaving their appropriate sphere. The men may, if they please, expose themselves to the hazard of dashing out their aerostatic brains, but they should not induce the weaker sex to dare and endure dangers and hardships which, perhaps, they do not appreciate, and which they are certainly not fitted to encounter. Mr. Clayton, of Cincinnati, the gentleman who when upwards of two miles from the earth, emptied his brandy flask and went to sleep at the bottom of his car, has addressed the good people of the Western Emporium on the utility of ballooning. He discourses learnedly on the subject, and seems to think that the time will come, when the people of this country will become as hair-brained as himself, and travel in the air when they can effect all the purposes of locomotion much more comfortably on rail road or turnpikes. He mistakes us. We have our peculiarities, but are not so crazy as he imagines. We must, however, admit the utility of ballooning for the purpose of making philosophical observations, particularly in the mode adopted by Mr. Clayton, where by the means of a telescope, y'clept a brandy flask, he was enabled to make extensive and valuable observations and experiments on the laud of dreams. A Mr. Prince, of Brooklyn, proposes to out-do Mr. Clayton. He intends to cross the Atlantic Ocean.—We fear, that he will land in the water. The loss to the community will not be serious, as this class of experimental philosophers has become very extensive.

Butter is 50 cents a pound, and potatoes at $1 50 per bushel at Louisville, Ky.

WHALES.—The Poughkeepsie Eagle says, "The whaling business made a worse beginning in this town, than at any other place in the United States, but is now looking up, and in a fair way of going ahead in a profitable way." This should encourage other places which have made bad beginnings.

Capt. Doyle's of the brig Elm, at New-York, from Guayama, P. R. states that a report was current at the time of his sailing, of fourteen plantations having been destroyed by fire at Santa Cruz.

LOWELL.—It appears by the Lowell Journal that the speculation fever rages in that town. It is stated that on one lot running west from the Bank, 275 feet, an advance of $7,500 was refused a short time after the purchase. It is mentioned as probable that upwards of two hundred thousand dollars worth of land has changed hands within the week, and some state the amount higher.

Warm Weather.—At New-York on Wednesday last, the thermometer at noon was 84 in the shade; at Boston, 85 and 86; and in Salem at 87 degrees.

Court-Martial.—The Naval Chronicle published at Washington, gives the following officers as composing the Naval Court Martial to be held at Baltimore on 22d June next, for trial of Capt. George C. Read, viz.: Com. L. Warrington, President; Com's W. M. Crane, James Biddle, and J. Downes; Capt. A. J. Dallas, T. A. C. Jones, and C. W. Morgan; and Master Com. B. Kenyon, members.

Patent Office.—Henry L. Ellsworth has been appointed by the President, Superintendent of the Patent Office. Mr. E. accepts the office, and has proceeded to Connecticut, to remove his family to Washington.

Slavery in Missouri.—Several of the leading Missouri papers are advocating the gradual emancipation of the slaves in that State. They propose that the Convention which has been called for the purpose of re-modelling the constitution, shall provide, that all such blacks as may be born before a given time, shall be slaves for life; that those born after a certain period shall be slaves for a given number of years; that those born after a period more remote, shall be free at birth. They place the question entirely on the grounds of expediency.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE.—It pains us to record the death, by suicide, of Dr. Gerard Dayers, the senior Surgeon of the United States Navy, on this station. It occurred this morning, at his residence, at the Norfolk House. About a year since the Doctor was thrown from a gig, his arm and skull were fractured, and he was trepanned, which no doubt produced an effect on the brain that occasioned insanity. He had many friends, and was highly esteemed. He was a native of Brussels, and was one of the oldest Surgeons in the Navy.—Boston Transcript.

Wm. Martin, the stage driver, who was indicted for robbing the mail, between Bedford and Chambersburg, (Pa.) and purloining therefrom $1000, contained in a letter, was tried on Thursday, in the District Court of the U. S. at Philadelphia convicted, and sentenced to ten years imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary.

A Hard Case.—A man was sentenced to three years imprisonment in New-Jersey, for overdrawing at the Bank of Paterson, $3000. There is a special statute in New Jersey on the subject. It is a very foolish and unjust law—the punishment should fall on the officers of the Bank, if any one is to be punished.

Successful Beggar.—We understand that a beggar named Williams, who has been for some time past levying contributions, in the shape of money, clothing and provisions, on the charity of our citizens, removed his deposits from one of our banks in the course of last week, to the amount of five or six hundred dollars.

Death by Quackery.—A respectable gentleman named Jackson, residing in the state of New-York, being on a visit to Philadelphia lately, called upon one of the Thompsonian doctors, on account of a slight rheumatic affection in one of his legs. He was accordingly steamed in hot, and drenched in cold water; and dosed with cayenne and lobelia until his throat and stomach were literally scalded. He returned to his lodgings with difficulty, became delirious, convulsed and apoplectic, and died in a few days.

The Quebec Gazette of May 1st, says—"The navigation to Montreal is now open. The ice at Carouge, which had been much damaged by the late high tides, moved down yesterday afternoon, and made its appearance before the town about five o'clock. In the course of the night and to-day it has nearly all passed down."

The Kinderhook Sentinel furnishes the following particulars, which throw some light on the cause of the explosion of the boiler of the steam boat Advocate lately, on the Hudson, by which a number of lives were lost:—"The Advocate was built at Poughkeepsie. She was to run at the rate of ten miles the hour, in which case her builder was to receive a stipulated sum. Upon a trial, it was found that the boat could not be made to run more than eight miles an hour, and the contractors determined to return her; but the builder, not satisfied with the trials, proposed that she should make a test trip, under his superintendence, to determine her speed, which was attempted accordingly, and resulted in the bursting of her boiler, as stated last week."

ITEMS OF NEWS.—The Boston Atlas states, that the Astor House, in New-York, has been rented by the Messrs. Boyden's, of the Tremont House.

A Juggler, by the name of Wheeler, alias Curtis, a few days since, while in the exercise of his vocation, running a sword down his throat, perforated some vital part, which caused his instant death.

A writer in the New York American, suggests as one of the causes of the present state of prosperity of the country, the general disuse of intoxicating liquors. There is truth in the suggestion, and it affords one of the strongest arguments for the prevalence of temperate habits in a community.

The number of inhabitants in the town of Worcester according to the census just taken, is 6624. The number in 1830, was 4172. Gain in 5 years, 2452.

Four hundred indecent and lewd prints, seized in Boston some months since, were burnt by the Sheriff of Suffolk, 27th ult. by order of Judge Thatcher.

A man by the name of Royal Draper has been recently tried at Utica and sentenced to three months imprisonment and a fine of fifteen dollars, for throwing a dead cat into a neighbor's well.

Fanny Kemble, in her Journal, relates, that on the same day that Benedict Arnold died in London, Major Andre's tomb, upon the Hudson, was struck and shivered by lightning.

Chauncey F. Cleveland has been elected Speaker of the House of Representatives of Connecticut, in the place of Salem Ingham resigned. Mr. Ingham has been recently elected a Representative in Congress.

The American Temperance Intelligencer, published at Albany, issues 50,000 monthly, to supply the demand for it.

POETRY.

FROM THE NEW YORK MIRROR.

THE WESTERN HUNTER.

BY WM. C. BRYANT.

AY, this is freedom!—these pure skies Were never stained with village smoke;
The fragrant wind, that through them flies, Is breathed from the wastes by plough and brake.
Here, with my rifle and my steed,
And her who left the world for me, I plant me, where the red deer feed In the green desert—and am free.

For here the fair savannah know No barriers in the blooming grass; Wherever breeze of heaven may blow, Or beam of heaven may glance, I pass In pastures, measureless as air, The lion is my noble game;
The bounding elk, whose antlers tear The branches, falls before my aim.
Mine are the river-fowl that scream From the long line of waving sedge;
The bear that marks my weapon's gleam, Hides vainly in the forest's edge;
In vain the she-wolf stands at bay;
The brinded catamount, that lies High in the boughs to watch his prey, Even the act of springing, dies.

With what free growth the elm and plane Fling their huge arms across my way, Gray, old and cumbered with a train Of vines, as huge and old and gray!
Free stray the lucid streams, and find No taint in these fresh lawns and shades; Free spring the flowers that scent the wind Where never scythe has swept the glades.

Alone the fire, when frostwinds sear
The heavy herbage of the ground, Gathers his annual harvest here,
With rattle like the battle's sound,
And trams of smoke to that heavenward tower,
And streaming flames that sweep the plain, Fierce, as if kindled to devour Earth to the well-springs of the main.

Here, from dim woods, the aged past Speaks solemnly, and I behold The handless future in the vast And lonely river, seaward rolled.
Who feeds its founts with rain and dew?
Who moves, I ask, its gliding mass,
And treads the bordering vines, whose blue Bright clusters tempt me as I pass?

Broad are these streams—my steed obeys, Plunges, and bears me through the tide.
Wide are these woods—I tread the maze Of giant stems, nor ask a guide.
Thou, ill day's last glimmer dim O'er woody vale and grassy height;
And kind the voice and glad the eyes,
That welcome my return at night.

FROM THE MONTREAL COURIER.

INFANCY.

If there be perfect joy on earth,
That seems from heaven to have its birth, It is, to see,
The bud, that promises the rose,
Its cradled sweetness soft unclose, In infancy.

Pure hours when all of life is light;
When clothed in robes of stainless white,
The cherub lies;
Beloved with holy tenderness,
And watched by orbs it seems to bless,
A mother's eyes.

How richer far than summer bird,
The lisping accents, fondly heard,
As days increase;
When riper meanings light the brow,
And kind affection chaneth low, Her song of peace!

Oh! blessed time, when every hour, Flies like the odor from a flower, Serene and free;
When every charm of life is new,
And every scene that greets the view, Is fair to see.

Sure, when these opening blossoms die,
And fade in beauty to the eye, None should deplore;
For in a clime secure and bright, Sustained by deathless air and light,
They pine no more.

MISCELLANY.

From the Philadelphia Gazette.

CROAKERS.—Ever since the days of Mr. Mickle, mentioned by Dr. Franklin at an early period of his residence in Philadelphia, we have had amongst us a class of timid over-cautious men known by the name of croakers, who always look upon the dark side of a picture, and who never can see in the activity of business, or the increase of the city, any thing but artificial excitement. If trade happens to be remarkable brisk, it is owing to too loose a system of credits which must end in ruin. If an unusual number of houses are built, they are the result of a fictitious capital, and real estate must soon fall. If bank and other stocks rise in price, it is occasioned by too free a discounting at the banks, which must end in a dreadful prostration for money. No thing seems to be anticipated by these worthy personages but disaster and distress, and they cannot enjoy the present, owing to the constant apprehension they entertain of what the future is to bring forth. The late Judge Peters used to relate an anecdote of a gentleman who furnished a remarkable example of this ill foreboding. He was the master of a vessel which carried passengers to England, and it was chanced to him that he was never satisfied with the weather, so that when the passengers would make inquiries of him as to their prospects, the winds were always light or baffling, or they came in flaws, or were dying away, or some such thing. Upon one occasion however, the passengers, who were annoyed by that want of consolation which is always inspired at sea, by anticipating the best that can happen instead of the worst, were delighted at the springing up of a strong and favourable wind, which they were sure would cure the Captain of his croaking. In this they found themselves mistaken, for, upon one of them saying to him with a countenance full of joy,—"Now, Captain, we have a most delightful breeze," he replied in his usual style,—"yes but how long will it last?"

But after all, croakers are not to be despised. They are a valuable portion of every community. They constitute chests. They cut like the wise horse to a heavy loaded wagon going down a steep hill, and prevent it from running too fast. When in banks as directors, they oppose the lending of too much money to one man. When directors in insurance companies, they over-estimate the risks, and thereby prevent the premium from being fixed too low. They check the ardour of speculation in stocks, real estate and other objects, which every now and then sets the world mad, and by constantly throwing cold water upon all schemes which have not for their basis, some visible or tangible certain source of income, prevent the ruin, which would inevitably overtake the young and thoughtless, or at all events, prevent it from being as great as it otherwise would be. A croaker stands upon the extreme side of prudence, whilst a full blooded speculator stands on the extreme side of imprudence. The one holds up to us the dark side of things, the other, the bright side, and were it not therefore, for the former, the public would not be able to see matter, in their true colours.

The Doric Fire-Place.

For Burning Anthracite & Bituminous Coal.
Health and economy a great desideratum.

ROBERT P. LEE & CO. AGENTS for selling the DORIC FIRE PLACE in Newport, have received an Assortment of sizes, and offer them for Sale, at their Store No. 132, Thames-street.

The advantages which the DORIC FIRE-PLACE possesses over all other STOVES, and other contrivances for burning Coal, are numerous. The common fire place or grate, is the worst among them all. It is deplorable to witness the enormous loss of heat caused by a rush of cold air from every hole, crack and crevice, by door and window; in this way, three-fourths of the heat passes up the chimney, and is a total loss. If recourse be had to a stove, it is next to impossible to regulate the quantity of fuel so as to have a medium heat; you must raise it to a red heat, or do without a fire; there is no way by which a moderate heat can be had in a stove in burning the anthracite coal. Besides this, the air, passing over the heated iron plates, becomes vitiated and unfit to be received by the lungs; the Doric Fire-Place supplies the defects of the former, and removes the objections to the latter. It presents a classic front, an embattlement supported by Doric Columns, whence it derives its name; it ventilates while it warms. They are easily kept clean, without the daily labor of brightening, as is the case where brass is used. The style is simple and elegant and consumes but a small quantity of coal. They are made in four and six foot sizes, and are made to suit Steam-Baths, Churches, Public Offices, Stores, Halls, Sitting Rooms and Parlors.

The incessant supply of fresh cold air which circulates between the lining and the outside, makes the iron indestructible, and consequently they will last for a great many years unimpaired.

Lectures on Natural Philosophy.

THE Introduction of NATURAL PHILOSOPHY into Common Schools as a regular study, is a subject on which, within a few years, much has been written. With those who recommend it, the Subscriber fully agrees, where they urge its propriety; and he feels with them how inadequate to the purposes of instruction, are books and conversations upon it, without apparatus. But though its thorough study in our Schools would be inconvenient, it seems to the Subscriber, that such a plan as he would now propose, is practicable and worthy of the consideration of the public. A course of Lectures, accompanied with visible illustrations, might be delivered to as many children and youths as might be assembled. Such a course the Subscriber wishes to commence in this Town, during the present season. When it is considered what classes of persons are contemplated in the plan, the prospect would seem the most appropriate season of the year. The hours between the close of the afternoon school and sunset, are sufficient for the purpose, and are better than those of the night. The proposed course, however, is not intended merely for children; but while it is hoped that the youngest auditor will make positive acquisitions of useful knowledge, no effort will be spared to render the Lectures instructive, and entertaining to those who are of mature youth. The Lectures will be commenced on the 1st of May, if a sufficient number shall subscribe for them. The Days and hours of Lectures may be designated hereafter.—Terms, $3 for a Family ticket. Twenty Lectures will be given.

THOMAS F. RODMAN.

Subscriptions will be received at this Office, and at the School-Room in Division st. Newport, April 4.

NOTICE.

TO PERSONS HAVING BUSINESS WITH THE PATENT OFFICE.

THE Patent Law directs, that "every inventor, before he presents his petition to the Secretary of State, signifying his desire of obtaining a Patent, shall pay into the Treasury thirty dollars, and shall take duplicate receipts; one of which receipts he shall deliver to the Secretary of State, when he presents his Petition."

It has been the practice, in many cases, to send the money above mentioned to the Secretary of State, or to the Superintendent of the Patent Office; but, in future, all applicants for patents will conform to the directions of the law on the subject, and make the required payments into the Treasury.

It will be a compliance with the law, in this respect, to pay the money to the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, or to his credit in any one of the selected deposite Banks. The receipts should state by whom the payment is made, and for what object.

As a notice to this effect was published on the 3d of October last, sufficient time has elapsed for its being known to those interested.—Therefore, fees for patents which may be sent to the Secretary of State, or Superintendent of the Patent Office, after the 1st of May, will be returned.

Fees for copies of patents, specifications, or drawings, or for recording assignments, should be transmitted to the Superintendent of the Patent Office, in coin, where they amount to less than five dollars, as bank notes under that sum will not be received.
